

Merry Christmas from Asia Christian Services

“... I bring you good news of great joy which will be to all the people”

December, 2011

Dear Mission Friend,

Here's joyful news - it's Christmas all over the world!

Would you be surprised to learn that many of our best-known Christian and non-Christian traditions of Christmas are on display this month throughout SE Asia? Homes, churches and businesses are elaborately decorated with bright lights, flowers and garlands - children sing carols - Christmas songs are broadcast on radio and television. People wear Christmas colors and children enjoy Santa Claus and eat the same high calorie delicacies we enjoy. They give and receive gifts and decorate trees - even in remote villages.

Of course, it's not a national holiday - shops, stores and government offices usually remain open, and in most places there's no snow or frost in the air - but it is still a very special time of year just like it is here.

You know, many of the Christmas traditions, when properly taught and understood, help people young and old have a greater knowledge of the profound truth of Christianity.

And that's what the work of Asia Christian Services is - helping people come to know the Jesus Christ we love and serve because He alone is the light and hope of the whole world.

With your partnership and support, ACS has had a great year in terms of service given to the people of SE Asia. We're involved in teaching ... training ... broadcasting ... Bible translating ... church planting ... village visiting ... and in supporting and sending evangelists out into remote or restricted areas where they provide spiritual guidance and some material and medical help.

But in terms of financial support for this ministry - to be honest - it has been a very difficult good year. Some worthy projects and ministry opportunities have gone unfunded, unfinished or untried. Please understand, we are not complaining - really we're not - it's just the way things are this year.

So, as we close we're asking for your prayer and financial partnership at year's end. Your dedication and generous support gift will help us not only meet our budget and mission needs but keep us on-track and sharing the joyful news of His birth. Thank you for your gift today - it will make a difference.

May God bless you and yours - MERRY CHRISTMAS!
